The Summer Vllls

2024

Official Programme

22nd to 25th May

OURCS

OURCs

Starting as a two crew race in 1815 between Brasenose and Jesus College, Summer Viii's now is the biggest event of the Oxford College Rowing Calendar! This year around 1500 students will be competing in Summer Viii's. This might even be the 200th edition of Summer Viii's (if we counted correctly).

2024 saw significant rain and the cancellation of Torpids, where instead we all competed (more or less successfully) in Tug of Warpids (Thank you, Pembroke!). Still, the college rowing community worked hard to train their rowers just in time for this week full of racing!

Events of this scale require months of work behind the scenes. I would like to thank everyone who helped in the run up to this event. My special thanks go to the OURCs exec committee, Sam, Charlotte, James and Tobi, for their hard work and support during rainy days. I would like to thank Rachel Quarrell and the Senior Umpires for their expertise and support in difficult times and decisions and for making racing happen, and Paul Azzopardi and David Seale as OURCs Senior Member/Treasurer, for supporting our work on a daily basis. You all helped me to grow as a Secretary. This job has been made a lot easier by the support and experience that the former secretaries Ty and Q shared with me. Finally, I would like to thank the OURCs Ordinary Committee Members and Racedesk Alumni for all their help during races and for sharing their wisdom with me, often accompanied by good bread and cheese.

After no programme was produced for the past few years, we are excited to present you the Summer Viii's 2024 programme. Big Thanks here go to our photographers who supplied us with excellent photos, our college artists who submitted their amazing works and James, for managing ads, printing and communications.

Thank you! - Sophia Ungermann, OURCs Secretary 2023-2024

Summer Eights Programme

Welcome to the Summer Eights 2024!

Started by the historic 1815 race between Jesus and Brasenose Boat Clubs, bumps remain a completely unique and exciting form of racing, practised in only a few places in the country. The tense battles between two or more crews as they fight to "gain a bump" remain memorable for a lifetime.

On the behalf of all those taking part in the event, we wish all spectators many edge-of-your-seat moments and fun in the sunshine. As for the competitors, we hope your boats run fast and your bumps are plentiful and uncontested. See you at the river!

Watching Eights

Bumps is perhaps one of the most exciting forms of racing. The aim is to hit the boat starting ahead of you on the river and as a result, take their place on the following day. If the racing becomes unsafe (or a swan gets in the way), you might hear a klaxon, meaning the race has been called off.

Division Times

Note that all divisions start an hour earlier on Saturday.

Glossary

Bump - when a boat catches the one in front and makes contact with it, or the coxswain of the boat in front concedes in order to avoid damage to people and equipment. Alternatively, a bump is awarded if a crew fully overtakes the crew in front. Two crews involved in a bump switch places in the start order for the next day's racing.

Headship - being the highest placed crew on the river (i.e. Bungline 1, Division 1), with no one ahead to bump.

Blades - a crew wins blades by bumping the crew ahead on each of the four days. Who gets blades differs between colleges. Some only get them when bumping at 'every opportunity'.

Spoons - a crew is assigned 'spoons' if they are bumped on each of the four days.

How bumps racing works

"Thirty seconds"
 "Twenty seconds"
 "Bow tap on a stroke"
 "Tap on a bit more"
 "Come forward"
 "Ten seconds"
 "Everyone relax"
 "Remember to breathe"
 "Five seconds"
 "Four"
 "Three"
 "Two"

.....(pause).....

"BANG!"

[a summary of the most alarming half-minute in the whole of your rowing career.]

The boats start near Iffley Lock at the downstream end of the Oxford reach of the Thames, locally known as the Isis stretch (see map, page 7). They line up next to the towpath (southern) bank with each cox holding a 'bungline' (rope with a small block of wood on the end) which spaces the crews out with one and half lengths of clear water between them. There are 13 crews per division, with the starting order determined based on the previous year's finishing order.

Three Winchester model cannons set in a field near the bunglines fire blanks to indicate the beginning of racing: one at the five minutes to go point, another when there is one minute to go, and the third to indicate the start. (The crew on summer bungline 6 usually has the best view of the cannons). If there is any delay to the start gun, then the sequence will be resumed from the 1-minute gun. Kindly coaches make their way round to the bunglines area, stopwatches in hand, and count down so that crews have some idea when the final gun will go off. When the start gun is fired, the coxes drop their bunglines, which are fished out of the river by boatmen, and the crews sprint off, followed by umpires to report bumps.

Earning a 'bump' in Summer Eights comes through either making contact with the crew in front (often clashing oars), or by completely overhauling it (ie your stern passing their bow).

If crew A bumps crew B, they swap places for the next day's racing. The crew at the top of each division must 'row over' (without being bumped) and then row again in the next highest division for their gender, as 'sandwich boat'. The divisions are raced in reverse order, with Women's Div 1 and Men's Div 1 the final two races of the day.

After a bump occurs in Eights, both crews drop out of the race and pull to one side to let the rest of the division continue. This can result in some 'gardening' as coxes head hurriedly for the bank. If two crews drop out leaving a large gap in the division, then it may be possible for a fast crew lower down to 'overbump' by closing the gap on those ahead. This is the main mechanism for crews to rise more than one place in a day without being sandwich boat. Equally, an overbumped crew will drop three places rather than the usual one. It is quite common for several of the boats to bump out of a division, leaving only a few rowing past the boathouses. On the other hand, a successful bump made directly outside your home boathouse crowds is considered the most satisfactory result.

On rare occasions a tangle of boats can occur, which nowadays tends to lead to a 'klaxon', when marshals fire an air-horn and stop racing completely on safety grounds. If a crew has been involved in a bump before the klaxon sounds, then it stands. Bumps achieved after the klaxon are discounted and 'technical row-overs' given. These may also be awarded if the race committee agrees that a crew was only caught due to an unavoidable external influence.

During Summer Eights spectators should see all the crews up to three times: once as they push off to warm up for their division, once as they race past (if they haven't bumped out), and then one final time as they return to their raft. If you don't see your favourites speed past, it's either very good, or very bad, news.

GOOD LUCK TO ALL THE RACING CREWS

Summer VIIIs 2023

©Nikola Boysova

THANK YOU!

Summer VIIIs would not be possible without the endless hours of work each and every volunteer puts into preparing it and running it. These hours always pay off, when we can see the fruits of our efforts during Bumps races!

We extend our deepest gratitude to the Senior Umpires of the Summer VIIIs 2024. This prestigious rowing event in Oxford could not have succeeded without your unparalleled dedication and expertise. Your commitment to fairness and professionalism ensures that every race is conducted under the highest standards, safeguarding the spirit of competition and sportsmanship.

Your meticulous attention to detail and profound understanding of the sport have been instrumental in navigating the complexities of bumps racing. Each decision made from the start to the thrilling bumps reflects your deep respect for the traditions and integrity of the rowing community.

We thank you for your tireless efforts, often under challenging conditions, to provide a smooth and safe racing experience for all participants. Your guidance and calm presence on and off the water are immensely appreciated by crews and spectators alike. As we celebrate another successful year of Summer VIIIs, we acknowledge and commend your significant contribution to making this event a highlight of the Oxford sporting calendar. Thank you for setting an exemplary standard and for your continued service to the rowing community.

We would like to take a moment to express our profound gratitude to the Boatmen for their exceptional dedication and skill.

Your tireless efforts in repairing our boats and preparing us for the start of each race do not go unnoticed. Your expertise ensures that every crew is equipped and ready at the bunglines, setting the stage for a safe and competitive event.

We would also like to thank all Polemen, spending hours at the bunglines and making Bumps racing as we know it happen.

We would like to thank the local clubs, Salters Steamers and Oxford River Cruises for their support and cooperation with the College rowing community, especially during big events like Summer VIIIs!

We asked for members of the college community if they wanted to submit some artworks. You can see their wonderful creations throughout this programme!

We are in awe of the skill so many athletes from this community display!

Thank you!

A brief history of bumps racing in Oxford

The details of collegiate rowing's origins in Oxford are lost in the mists of time, but the sport seems to have become popular by the end of the eighteenth century as a form of friendly recreation.

The first Summer Eights racing is thought to have occurred in 1815, a few months before the battle of Waterloo, when crews from Brasenose and Jesus decided to race home from Iffley Lock. Brasenose won, making them the first official 'Head of the River' crew. The competition became annual, racing from Iffley Lock to a finish line on Christ Church Meadow, marked by a flagpole on Isaac King's barge moored at the meadows bank.

By 1826 four colleges were involved and had devised bumping rules, the order of flags on the King's Barge flagpole indicating which crews had swapped places between race days. More colleges joined, and it was normal practice, in those days before academic league tables, for the crews to row down to Sandford in the afternoon. They would spend a while playing skittles or doing gymnastics, before rowing upstream again, with practice bursts in the stretch between Sandford and Iffley locks, to race one division. All racing stopped behind any crews which bumped, only those ahead continuing to try and achieve their own bump. Race days were interspersed with rest days, so the whole event spread out over a week.

In 1840, after high winds the previous year had disrupted racing, the current three-cannon starting system was put in place, and the 14 colleges then involved began the practice of 'bumping out' to the opposite bank, so that boats behind could carry on racing past them. By this time a parallel event, 'Torpids', had already started for second crews, initially on the days between 'Eights' racing, though in 1852 it moved to the spring term.

Meanwhile 'Eights' was becoming longer and longer, on the principle that enough racing days should occur for every boat, even that starting bottom, to be able to reach the Headship. Eventually a maximum of 8 days racing was decreed, and over time this has dropped to four.

During the 1870s the 20 or so colleges competing became split into two divisions, each crew starting 130 feet from the one behind it.

By 1908 the entry was expanded to allow second crews into Eights, and after a gap of six years for the first world war (1914-1919) racing resumed in 1920 with increasing popularity. More divisions were added, and in the early 1930s the 'Getting On Races' (now 'Rowing On') were devised to determine which crews should occupy the final slots. The formal event was again suspended for war (1939-1945), although informal bumps-style races were held, and in 1946 the event was revived using the 1939 starting order.

Although women's rowing had existed at the university since the 1920s, and some women rowed in men's crews, there were no solely women's crews in Summer Eights until St Hilda's women entered the 1969 event by successfully rowing on and competing against the men. After the all-male undergraduate colleges started admitting women during the mid-1970s, a women's division was created in 1976, with Wadham ending the first year as Head of the River. The balance of divisions between the sexes has now almost evened out, and women have been coxing men's crews, and vice-versa, for many years.

That isn't the only change in the last century. We now use carbon fibre boats and oars instead of wooden ones, wear cotton lycra 'all-in-ones' instead of shorts and shirts (or bloomers for the women), and in this electronic age, racing is photographed, timed, videoed, commented on and tweeted to the world. The format, however, still has much in common with those early nineteenth century races, even if the equipment looks very different.

With grateful thanks to Anu Dudhia, whose 'History of Oxford College Rowing' remains the definitive guide to all things Isis-rowing-related, and was the major source for this article, written in previous years.

Help us keep Eights affordable for clubs and rowers

Each year the costs of running Summer Eights and Torpids rises. We want to avoid increasing entry fees and adding more burden to clubs and rowers who are similarly feeling the impact of rising costs.

If you're enjoying this week's racing, please consider a small annual gift to OURCs to keep this unique historical event accessible for all college boat clubs and rowers.

Scan the QR code below or visit giving.ox.ac.uk/a/ourc24 to help support Summer Eights.

If you are interested in making a larger, long-term, contribution to OURCs, or would like to hear about more about supporting Eights through a legacy, please email sport@devoff.ox.ac.uk
